LEVEL ****

Elevation: +/-1100 to 1300 m on average per day.

Walking time: 6 to 8 hours per day.

Route: Rocky trails that cross passes between 2800m and 3000m in altitude every day. Some passes are steep, and there are several exposed or technical sections, mainly at the start of the season when crossing residual snowfields. The trails are relatively well marked except when approaching certain passes.

Snow will still be present on the route until at least the end of June. You will probably walk on long snow-covered sections, which makes the route a little more challenging. High-top hiking boots, gaiters, and walking sticks are mandatory. Be prepared!

Ascent of the Bishorn: walking with crampons without any particular technical difficulty or vertigo, but it is a long walk on a glacier.

You need to be in good general physical condition. Practice an endurance sport such as walking, running, or cycling regularly, for 6 to 8 hours per week. Your physical preparation will make your trip easier and allow you to enjoy it all the more.

SUPERVISION

Number of participants between 6 and 12 people supervised by qualified professionals (mid-mountain guide and high-mountain guide). At the beginning of the season, the number of participants may be reduced depending on snow conditions. The mountain guide or high mountain guide may have to modify the program to adapt it to the level of the participants and/or natural conditions. They remain the sole decision-maker in the final instance.

As a token of gratitude, it is customary to tip your guide at the end of your hike, depending on your satisfaction. This is not mandatory but is greatly appreciated.

ACCOMMODATION

6 nights in mountain huts, in dormitories.

MEALS

Breakfast and dinner are served at the accommodation. For lunch, your guide will prepare a picnic, usually consisting of a variety of salads and regional products. Please let us know about any allergies or dietary requirements when you book. We do our best to accommodate special diets (gluten-free, vegetarian, etc.). However, we encourage you to bring a few additional items for your own picnics.
